

Privacy Policy - Kimble and Ellesborough Horticultural Society

Members' personal data is held by the Society in accordance with the General Data Protection Regulation. The Society has a Lawful Reason to hold Members' data and the Legitimate Interest is detailed below. Members are entitled to know what is stored and why, by whom, and how it is handled. Your personal data will be held by the Membership Secretary, who will be the controller and processor of the data. The personal data held is name, postal address, telephone number and email address. Data is held to ensure the smooth running of the Society and to record subscriptions paid. This will require processing of the data to prepare lists to distribute newsletters, Year Books and to collect annual subscriptions by Society Area Representatives, and to inform members of monthly meetings and other items of horticultural interest by email using the BCC facility. Data will also be processed to provide lists to those organising events for the Society and email lists will be held by other Committee members for use in emergency. Members are entitled to ask the Membership Secretary to provide a copy of their information held on the Society's Excel spreadsheet and to ask for their details to be removed. Members' data will never be passed to anyone outside the Society without their permission.
